Then Jack Yeung moved forward a half length, only to find Lieutschland rought to meet his spart, and Yeung dropped back once more. Taby moved up passing the stable turn, but Desitschland rounded the curve in the lead and set sail for the stretch turn a length to the good—the greatest lead he had enjoyed in the course of the race.

As they swung around for home Taby and Young moved up. Inch by inch they gained on the flying lender. Three-skr-teenths out they were fighting it need and neck. Young had saved ground by taking the inner route to the stretch, but he could not hold the pace with his opponents and the others drew away.

Then, in a finish which brought wild cheers from the crowd. Taby got his head to the fore and kent it there as the line was passed. Fauntieroy easing him up just as the wire was reached. It was a gamely fought battle on the part of all three, and as good a contest as one could expect to see.

Harmasks was the best colt in the third race, but was allowed to drop hopelessly out of it in the early starges. He was several lengths back of the leaders at the half-mile bost, and but two heads back at the finish. Had the race been a sixteenth longer, or had he been kent up for the early starge, it looks as though he would surely have won. Footlights Favorite and Frank Collins crossed the line beads apart.
